CAR INSURANCE BOOST TO COST CITY $40,000

Higher Repair Costs Push Auto, Truck Rates Up.

Increases in the cost of automobile insurance, effective today, are expected to cost Mansfielders more than $40,000 a year.

The increase in rates, announced by the National Bureau of Casualty and Surety Underwriters in New York, will boost rates about $5 per car here. There are approximately 8,000 automobile insurance policies issued to Mansfielders.

The jump in rates, the Associated Press reported, will amount to 30 per cent for property damage for automobiles and 40 per cent for commercial vehicles. A 10 per cent increase was made in personal injury liability coverage.

Increased income as well as increased medical and hospital costs has resulted in a 30 per cent higher average settlement in claims for bodily injuries than in 1941, the bureau said. It estimated that property damage claims had risen 80 per cent above 1941 because of increased costs of material and labor.

A record mileage with over-age and unsafe automobiles, increased speed limits and deterioration of roads were blamed for the high number of damage claims filed last year.

Besides Ohio, the new rates apply to 26 other states and the District of Columbia.

PRISONER FOUND HANGED IN JAIL

CRESTLINE — George Foreshaw, 67, was found dead in his cell at city jail here Saturday night by Patrolman David Corbin, who said Mr. Foreshaw had hung himself by a handkerchief to the cell door. Death was due to strangulation, Dr. A. O. Kackley, Crawford county coroner said.

Mr. Foreshaw had been taken to the city jail at 2 p. m. on a charge of disorderly conduct. He was a retired boilermaker for the New York Central railroad, leaving the employ of the company four years ago. He lived at 520 South street.

Mr. Foreshaw was born May 7, 1879 at St. George, Ont., Canada. His wife, Margaret Weinert, died in 1942.

Surviving are four sons, Charles and Floyd of Crestline, Lloyd at home and Paul of Chicago; two daughters, Mrs. Lillian Gamble of Marion and Miss Hazel Foreshaw at home; five grandchildren; one brother, Thornton of Cleveland and one sister, Mrs. Jessie Maloney of Bedford.

Services will be held at 2:30 p. m. tomorrow at the Garverick funeral home with Rev. R. L. Van Scoy, pastor of the Trinity Lutheran church, in charge. Burial will be in Greenlawn cemetery.

'Babs' Ready For 4th Try At Matrimony

ST. MORITZ, Switzerland —(U.P.)—Friends of Heiress Barbara Hutton confirmed today reports that she would take Prince Igor Trubetskoi as husband number one.

The date of the wedding has not been set because of a delay in securing a French marriage license which in turn depends on the prince's pending application for French naturalization.

The prince was described as being French-born but of Russian origin.

Miss Hutton's marriage to Trubetskoi will make her once again a princess. Alexis Mdivani, her first husband, was a Georgian (Russian) prince. Count Haugvitz Von Reventlow, of Denmark, was her second husband, and Cary Grant, of Hollywood, her third. A son, Lance, was born to Miss Hutton when she was Countess Von Reventlow.

ARMY TRUCK CONVOY MOVES BRITISH COAL

LONDON —(U.P.)— Army truck convoys reminiscent of wartime rolled along icy roads today, carrying coal from the mines to strengthen the growing reserve stocks in the country's power plants.

A fleet of more than 700 army trucks were at work, and officials hoped they would carry 4,000 tons daily.

Prospects for another week of sub-freezing temperatures [illegible] officials to avoid predictions as to when severe electricity restrictions could be eased.

UE Unions Seek 27-Cent Boost At Westinghouse

A cost-of-living pay increase of $11.72 per week or 27 cents an hour was asked by the CIO electrical workers from the Westinghouse Electric corporation at a contract negotiation meeting in Pittsburgh today, the United Press reported.

A five-man negotiating committee for the union met with an equal number of company representatives in the first day of a two-day session aimed at settling demands of the United Electrical Workers for 1947.

Included in the requests were provisions for a guaranteed annual wage, health and welfare funds, portal-to-portal pay, and adjusted pensions, the U. P. said.

* * *

Affects 75,000.

Covering approximately 75,000 Westinghouse employes in 58 plants, including some 5,300 at the Mansfield factory, the new agreement would replace the present contract which will expire March 31.

However, the union was expected to follow the example of the CIO steel workers by negotiating contract extensions.

The negotiating sessions were expected to continue through tomorrow when a recess may be called to permit Westinghouse representatives to study the union's proposals.

Other demands of the union, press services reported, are equalization of pay between men and women, severance pay, and union shop. The retirement pay demand was set at a minimum of $100 monthly.

Burglars Again Break Into Madison School

For the second time in four days burglars broke into Madison high school Saturday night, but this time they failed to get anything. Last Wednesday evening $400 in cash was stolen from the building.

Supt. Olan LaRue reported that thieves again broke through two doors to reach his office. "They got nothing this time, as far as we know," he said.

The latest burglary is believed to have occurred sometime after a basketball game at the school Saturday night. Harry Snyder, caretaker, discovered it Sunday.

The intruders did not disturb the superintendent's office and must have given up when they observed the office safe which was blown open by use of nitroglycerine Wednesday night, LaRue said.

Meanwhile, Mansfield police were investigating the burglary of the Central Methodist church, 378 Park avenue west, last night. Rev. J. Frank Stewart, pastor, told officers that $3 to $5, representing birthday money of the junior department, was missing.

The burglars thoroughly ransacked files in the pastor's office and a group of lockers and they forced open most of the doors in the church, Rev. Stewart reported.

BRITISH HALT 800 REFUGEES

JERUSALEM —(U.P.)— Approximately 800 unauthorized Jewish refugees, at least 20 of them suffering from tear gas burns, were deported by Cyprus today after failing to fight their way onto Palestine soil.

The refugees smashed the engine of their two-masted boat "Herouth" off Tel Aviv Sunday and fought a British navy boarding party for more than an hour. They were subdued by water sprays and tear gas bombs.

A nationwide strike protesting the deportation, called by the Jewish National council, was held without incident between 10 and 11 a. m. The refugees sailed from Haifa in a British transport while the strike was in progress.

A writ of habeas corpus to test the legality of the deportation was withdrawn just as the transport sailed. The case was to have been heard in court today.

The refugee vessel was brought into Haifa harbor early this morning and its passengers transferred to the transport. They had been without water since entering Palestine territorial waters.

TRAFFIC KILLS DOZEN IN OHIO

Twelve persons were killed and at least 34 others injured in traffic accidents in Ohio over the weekend.

A statewide snowfall that made highways wet and slippery was a factor in some of the mishaps.

AUTO MISHAPS INJURE FOUR FROM CITY AREA

Plumbing Dealer Hurt When Train Demolishes His Car Near Willard.

Four Mansfield and Lucas residents were injured, one seriously, in traffic accidents over the weekend.

Most seriously injured was Ira Bowman, 48, Mansfield, R. D. 1, partner in the Bowman and Baker Plumbing and Heating company, whose car was demolished by a B. and O. passenger train Sunday noon three miles east of Willard.

Bowman suffered back injuries and multiple bruises and was taken to Willard Municipal hospital. His condition was reported as good today.

Treated at Hospital.

Others who received treatment for their injuries and were released from hospitals were:

Mrs. Charles Shrack of Lucas, treated at General hospital for knee and face lacerations.

Adam Poth, Fifth avenue, Mansfield, treated at General hospital for minor head bruises.

Wilbur Butts, 23, of 39½ East Fourth street, treated for minor head and back injuries at Cincinnati General hospital.

Bowman was thrown out of his car when it skidded into the path of a train at Newman's Crossing on State Route 99 near Willard.

A farm woman who heard the crash, administered first aid to Bowman who was found unconscious beside the tracks. Bowman was reported to have been returning from a business trip to Steuben.

Mrs. Schrack was injured when the car in which she was riding went out of control on the wet paving between Lucas and Mansfield, broke through a guard rail and continued into an open field. Sheriff's deputies said the accident occurred around 2 p. m. Sunday on State Route 39, and that Mrs. Shrack was pinned in the car for a short time.

Poth was hurt when a car driven by Cullen Stringfellow, Mansfield, R. D. 2, turned over three miles west of Springmill on Route 39 at 7:30 p. m. Sunday.

Bus Overturns.

Butts, a Service Cab driver, was among 19 persons slightly injured when a Greyhound bus overturned yesterday on State Route 3 about 10 miles north of Cincinnati. Hamilton county authorities blamed a slippery highway for the accident, news services reported today.

Dorothy Gratzer, 28, who listed Mansfield as her home was among those injured, the Associated Press said.

Meanwhile, Harriet Gorham and Irene Harvey, 16-year-old Senior high school pupils, seriously injured in a collision near Northfield Friday, were reported to be improving at St. Luke's hospital, Cleveland today. Norman Pore, 21, also of Mansfield injured in the same crash, was said to be in "good" condition at Bedford hospital.

STEERING LOCK BAFFLES THIEF

Police today were investigating reports of the attempted theft of one auto and the theft of another early yesterday.

At 1:45 p. m. Sunday police received a report that ignition wires had been crossed on a car parked in the Westinghouse garage on East Fifth street. The car had been started and backed out on Newman street but abandoned when a locked steering mechanism prevented further traveling.

Claude J. Griffith, 525 Crescent road, reported a 1936 model car stolen from its parking place on Newman street between 6 and 8 a. m. yesterday. He reported the keys had been left in the car.

At 10 a. m. yesterday, police found the car abandoned near the city limits on U. S. Route 30 east. They reported it had a dented fender and door and believed it may have been involved in an accident.

Red Cross Campaign Set To Start March 1

Mansfield and Richland county will be asked to contribute $41,000 in the annual Red Cross enrollment which gets under way March 1, it was announced today by James L. Zimmerman, campaign chairman.

The goal is $23,000 less than last year's figure, Zimmerman said. Mansfield will be asked to raise $31,500, Shelby, $6,000, and the townships, $3,500.

"Although this year's goal is well below the $64,200 asked last year, cash on hand is being applied toward the 1947 goal," Zimmerman said. This means that, while the total activities of the Red Cross will cost $92,000,000 nationally, by application of surpluses, the amount sought will be held to $60,000,000 and Richland county's quota has been reduced on the same basis."

Zimmerman said the seven services for which this year's contributions will be used are:

Service to veterans and their families, service to active servicemen and their families, overseas program of the Red Cross, disaster preparedness and relief, continuation of the health and educational program, Junior Red Cross and Volunteer special serices.

For veterans, the program included financial aid, guidance and consultation, aid in filing claims and benefits and recreational aids in hospitals.

For active servicemen, it includes services ranging from reports on home conditions to financial aid and hospital recreational facilities. For occupation troops it includes the facilities of Red Cross clubs, sight-seeing tours, serices of medical and social workers in overseas hospitals, and aid offered by Red Cross field workers in foreign areas.

For Richland county, the disaster preparedness and relief program is designed to meet any emergency arising from fire, flood or other disaster.

"The peace-time activities of the American Red Cross are of the same nature as those provided by it after World War I. with two differences," Zimmerman said.

"First, there is an Army of Occupation in Japan, Korea, Germany, Austria and Italy, and, second, there are four times as many American men and women in World War II as there were in the first World conflict.

"Thus, the number of wounded and disabled to be cared for in Army and Navy veterans' hospitals in this country, and the number of able-bodied veterans requiring services from the Red Cross are in the ratio of four-to-one, as compared with the previous war.

"The result of all this is that 75 per cent of the present activity of the American Red Cross represents services to the Armed Forces at home and overseas and to veterans in this country.

WORKERS MOVE CRASH VICTIMS

Colombian Airliner's Death Toll of 53 Includes Eight U. S. Citizens.

BOGOTA—(INS)—Searchers began the grisly task today of removing 52 bodies—remains of all but one of the victims in history's worst aircrash—from a 2,000-foot deep abyss near Colombia's Mount Talbazo.

The other body was recovered on a debris-strewn shelf 200 feet below the peak of the treacherous 11,000-feet high mountain into which the ill-starred Colombian airliner ploughed Saturday before exploding.

At least eight U. S. citizens, including two crew members, were among the victims—all of whom perished either upon impact or when the flaming wreckage of part of the plane hurtled to the bottom of the abyss.

Indicating that disaster might have been averted by a matter of feet, searchers who made the perilous ascent to the mountain peak found parts of the propellor, motor and baggage scattered over the mountainside.

Almost Over Top.

One searcher took this to indicate the forward part of the plane actually might have cleared the mountain top, with only the rear of the plane smashing into the ledge.

The baggage was in the compartment in the nose of the giant four-motored DC-4, which was operated by Avianca airlines. The line lost another plane three weeks ago, when 17 persons were killed by a crash in the Magdalena jungle.

Part of the cabin, and at least three bodies, were embedded deeply in the earth at the bottom of the abyss. Papers, books, fountain pens and children's shoes were scattered throughout the area.

Home Burns 2 Days After It's First Occupied

ASHLAND — A two-story farmhouse which had been occupied by the E. C. Runkle family only since Friday was destroyed by fire late last night.

The Ashland fire department, which made a futile effort to save the building and its contents, reported the house was filled with new furniture.

The family was out of town when the fire broke out about midnight, and returned to find the house gutted. No estimate of damage was available, but firemen said "only a few sticks of furniture" were saved.

NEW FRIGID WAVE HEADS THIS WAY

Mansfield residents were warned today that another cold wave was on the way.

The latest onslaught of Old Man Winter is scheduled to arrive tomorrow night, and the weatherman said strong winds and snow flurries tomorrow would herald the arrival of the cold wave.

The weather bureau wouldn't commit itself as to the intensity of the latest frigid attack. But it said "we're definitely in the path of a cold air mass moving eastward from Canada."

Mansfield's weekend was comparatively mild, with a high yesterday of 31 and a low of 24. Precipitation—mostly snow—amounted to .03 inches. The temperature at noon today was 30, the Longview station of OPS reported.

CHINA FIGHTS TO CLEAR UP MONEY CHAOS

NANKING —(A.P.)— Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek's government in a desperate fight for national survival completely revamped China's tottering business structure today and promised to reorganize the government itself.

Shanghai's tough black market operators promptly moved "underground" and defied the new regulations—but Chiang threatened "severe penalties" and said that "rough and ready justice" would make up in some case for lack of enforcement machinery.

The drastic decrees:

1. Ordered home all fortunes abroad. (A few Chinese are reported to have foreign investments worth billions; and many have moderate nesteggs.)

2. Provided for government withdrawal from industry. (It had been moving toward virtual monopoly of heavy industry, but now plans to retain only utilities and defense-essential plants).

3. Restricted wages and prices to January levels, and prohibited strikes and lockouts.

4. Fixed the official exchange rate at 12,000 Chinese dollars to one U. S. (instead of 3,350 to one) and banned any use of foreign currency or any trading in gold in China. This already is being violated in Shanghai.

5. Provided for a curtailed government budget and stricter tax collections, along with expenditure of $472,950,000 U. S. for importing urgently needed machinery and raw materials.

6. Pledged a campaign against hoarding and speculating, and said "severe penalties" would be imposed for violation of any decrees.

Laraine Battles To Stay Married

HOLLYWOOD —(U.P.)— Actress Laraine Day went to bat with the courts to remain Mrs. Leo Durocher today while the Lip himself went back to his beloved Brooklyn Dodgers.

Miss Day's attorneys were to appear before Superior Judge Edward T. Bishop to argue that Judge George A. Dockweiler, who granted her a divorce Jan. 20 from airport executive Ray Hendricks, is too "prejudiced" to determine her status.

VETS' AGENCY BEARS BRUNT OF HEAVY CUT

$315,546,600 Deficiency Request By Truman Cut to $139,360,000.

WASHINGTON — (AP) — The Republican - controlled house appropriations committee swung a legislative meat axe today at President Truman's first money request for 1947—chopping it more than in two: from $315,546,600 to $139,360,000.

Of the entire 56 per cent reduction of $176,186,600 recommended by the committee in the first supply bill sent to the house floor since Republicans won control of congress, $175,683,500 was applied to the Veterans administration. The committee promised, however, to review that agency's detailed needs later.

Today's action is not related directly to the proposed $6,000,000,000 clash in the president's $37,500,000,000 budget for the coming fiscal year. The bill deals only with deficiencies in funds already appropriated for the current fiscal year ending June 30.

Coupled with the measure were recommendations for the cancellation of $706,148,578 in appropriations already made and for liquidation of the Civilian Production administration by June 30 instead of Dec. 31.

In the case of another war-born agency, however — the Office of Defense Transportation—the committee recommended a two-months extension of life—from the end of April to the end of June—because of the crisis resulting from the shortage of freight cars. The committee recommended $130,000 in addition SDT funds, a reduction of $13,000 from the president's suggestion.

Agrees On Stop-Gap.

The committee agreed on $136,200,000 as a stop-gap fund for the veterans administration, which said its original allotment of $553,805,915 will be exhausted by the end of this month. The agency had asked for $307,258,000.

"Existing conditions in the veterans administration," the committee said in explanation of its action, "require very careful hearings and exhaustive study before the appropriation of the amount proposed."

The committee said it "is not at all satisfied that the veterans administration is taking proper precautions to conserve the government's fund in the cost of administration and desires to secure full information on this point."

The amount recommended, the committee said, should carry VA until the end of March.

To help finance the cost of handling checks for payments of income tax refunds and for allotments to veterans attending school, the committee approved an additional $3,000,000 for the treasury's division of disbursement.

Estimates Short.

The report said earlier estimates of the number of payments fell far short of actuality. There are nearly 2,000,000 ex-GIs in school compared with an expected 670,000. Also the first estimate was for 7,000,000 tax refunds by June 30 but, the committee said, there will be in excess of 30,000,000 by then due to a speed-up in repayment plans.

The bill also carries an item of $30,000 for the customary payments of $10,000 each to the

BLAST ROCKS MIFFLIN AREA

Fur Storage Building Hit By Explosion; Two Men Escape Injury.

MIFFLIN—The roof of a one-story frame building here, in which thousands of dollars' worth of furs were stored, was lifted off its base by an explosion early Sunday.

Accumulation of gas from a nearby gas line was blamed for the blast, which so terrified a dog sleeping in the building that it has not been seen since.

Although two men were sleeping in the building, owned by Mast Bright, Mifflin fur dealer, no one was injured. A minor flash fire which followed the explosion was extinguished before arrival of the Ashland community fire truck from Ashland.

Seeping Gas Blamed.

Harry Ewing, driver of the fire truck, said a leak in a gas line which passes under the building seeped into the office. An open door in the office allowed the gas to be ignited from flames in a coal stove burning in another room.

Damage was limited to dislocation of the roof, broken windows, a door blown from its frame and singed wallpaper. Every window in the one-story frame building was broken. All furs hanging from the nails in the building were knocked down, but were not damaged.

FLAG DROPPED AT SOUTH POLE

ABOARD THE U. S. S. S. MT. OLYMPUS IN THE ANTARCTIC (Feb. 16)— Rear Admiral Richard E. Byrd flew over the South Pole today and dropped the flag of the United Nations at the Pole, dispatches from Little America announced.

Byrd duplicated his feat of Nov. 29, 1929 by flying over the Pole. The dispatch announcing the exploit did not state how far his plane had flown into areas never before beheld by human eyes.

Byrd returned to Little America at 11:45 a. m.—which is 5:45 p. m. E. S. T.—after a flight of nearly 13 hours.

His plane took off accompanied by a second craft and returned with it, but it was not immediately announced whether both had flown over the Pole.

Byrd sent a personal message to Admiral Chester Nimitz, U. S. Chief of Naval Operations, written while he was circling over the Pole.

The temperature at the Pole was reported to be 40 degrees below zero at an altitude of 12,000 feet.

2 FAMILIES DRAW ARMY PAY ON 'STOLEN' CHILD

TOLEDO —(INS)— Sheriff H. G. Cline, of Newton county, Missouri, was scheduled to arrive in Toledo today to return Betty and Robert Humbarger to Neosho, Mo., to face charges of kidnaping 14 - month - old Donald Robert Waltman.

Both Humbarger, a discharged soldier, and his wife waived extradition, but denied kidnaping the youngster. They said they were anxious to clear up the matter, which has gained nation-wide interest.

A possibility that the federal government might enter the case also developed.

Authorities learned that both the Humbargers, who have no children of their own, and Donald's mother, Mrs. Virginia Waltman, of Neosho, who swore out the warrant for the couple's arrest, received government allotments for Donald.

Both Humbarger and his wife asserted they loved Donald and did not want to give him up. They maintained his mother gave them permission to keep the baby because they could give him better care.

FREDERICK C. OTHMAN

Good Men Hard to Get

WASHINGTON —(CP)— President Truman says he's having trouble finding good men to work for the government.

Now that congress has been in session for a month and a half, I am beginning to understand. There are so many straw bosses tossing insults, making threats and arguing with each other about the help that some self-respecting bureaucrats are inclined to flee to the south seas while they've still got their sanity.

As for their clerks, they are biting their fingernails and worrying about their futures and who can blame 'em for that?

Some congressmen say they're going to fire 1,00,000 federal workers in the next few weeks; others insist that only about 500,000 should lose their jobs; still others—mostly Democrats—claim that the government's hired-hands are overworked as it is.

So there was Attorney General Tom Clark testifying the other day that his best men were quitting all the time and he was having the devil's own time finding replacements. He mentioned his press agent, who had taken a job in private industry the week before at $40,000 a year.

He said that he couldn't find any law school graduates to take the low pay jobs in his department and that the wages of his district attorneys were so low that he had to let them accept outside legal cases to eke out their incomes.

* * *

FORTUNATELY, he continued, he did have a few long-time employes in the department, who liked their work and got some inner satisfaction from doing a job for their fellow man, even though they didn't eat as well as they might if they worked in private industry.

Along came one of these loyal veterans, Wendell Berge, who had spent 17 years working himself up to the job of assistant attorney general in charge of trust-busting. Berge told the civil service committee of the senate that he, too, was having his troubles finding lawyers.

If he only had some more, he could do a better job of keeping big business out of illegal combines, he said. Berge (as I reported here a couple of days ago) received a working-over from the senators.

One of them said he obviously was not taking seriously his oath of office because poor men frequently went to jail, but rich ones hardly ever, even when they admitted breaking the anti-trust laws. Berge said this was true, but could he help it because judges and juries hated to put business men behind bars? He put up a spirited defense of his bureau, but one of the senators said he couldn't see what good the anti-trust division was, so long as it was under present management. Berge flushed, but said nothing.

* * *

WHAT THE SENATORS didn't know was that Berge had submitted his resignation Jan. 30 and that President Truman had accepted it with praise for his service on Feb. 7. That wasn't announced until Saturday.

Berge said he couldn't expect his family to take it any longer. His children had a right to future security and some more of the comforts of life and he was going at last into private law practice, where he could earn some money. He didn't mention the insults.

His case is one of many. It explains in large part, I think, the inefficiency of so many government bureaus and the snippiness of so many federal clerks. Next time one snarls at you, remember that the poor wretch isn't sure whether he'll still have a job tomorrow.

WESTBROOK PEGLER

Judges Have Leeway

THE JUDGES of the federal courts are officers of the government with a general duty of upholding that government particularly in matters affecting the administration of justice. The federal judges in New Jersey have recently observed a farcical performance in the trial of Joe Fay, the union racketeer. All of them were on notice that there was reason to anticipate the acquittal of Fay by reason of conduct which Tom Clark, the attorney general, promptly after the verdict but too late to serve the public interest, condemned as a "———— damned outrage."

An area of discretion exists here in which all the judges concerned may justify their conduct. That they could have been more zealous without violating propriety and at no sacrifice of the defendant's rights also is a fact.

These judges are citizens and residents of a region in which the political influence of that lodge of the Democratic party known as the Hague machine is mighty, ruthless and notorious Judge Thomas F. Meaney, who presided, has been identified with the local party for many years He is an intelligent man, an excellent lawyer, a fairly dashing fellow in the politico-social life of his community and one of those jurists of the type known as "human" who lives neither in an ivory tower nor in a vacuum He gets around and knows everybody.

* * *

AFTER THE ACQUITTAL of Fay, so the New York Journal-American reports, the federal grand jury which indicted Fay voted to investigate the conduct of the trial. One of the grand jurors was reported to have told Judge Guy L. Fake, senior judge of the district, that he felt that this trial had brought the administration of federal justice "more or less into contempt" in that district. Another was quoted as having told Judge Fake that the grand jurors couldn't condone the conduct of the government's case.

Inasmuch as Mr. Clark, from a distance in Washington, had anticipated trouble, these federal judges, some of them right on the scene and one of them, Judge John Biggs jr. on the outskirts of it, might have had apprehensions, too. During the war, defendants charged with seditious utterances were dragged from the ends of the country to Washington for trial. Fay was allowed to stand his trial on his home ground on which he, through his union and the political machine of which he is a distinguished member, freely exerts terroristic powers over the citizens. This influence affects almost every conceivable interest of the prospective jurors. Banks, unions, licensing bureaus, and bodies which award contracts and levy taxes are at his service to coerce jurors. It was a situation in which, even under the most expert and conscientious administration of justice, the government would still stand less than an even chance against Fay.

* * *

ONE WITNESS who reluctantly testified against Fay in New York, admitting that his company had paid Fay for "delivering a speech" on good roads, went to New Jersey and changed his story. In the Newark trial he said his company hadn't paid the money for services but had given it "in appreciation and stimulation of his interest." A payment for services would have been reportable since: A gift was not.

Yet, although this and one other witness in the New York trial reversed their stories in New Jersey, the prosecution lost the case and an uncommonly arrogant rogue walked out of court.

The Fay case in Newark is now notorious.

It should not have been tried in Newark because, as every judge in the area knows, it was almost impossible to get a jury free of fears and they had better reason than Mr. Clark to anticipate trouble

Al Gets Impatient

AL JOLSON motored from California to Florida to do a few benefits for the March of Dimes. In Key West the impatient star almost chewed away his bottom lip while the corny m.c. used ten minutes of superlatives and adjectives to a nauseating point in introducing Al.

Finally, working himself up into a phony phrenzy, the hamo wept: "When I just think of the very name of Jolson I choke!"

"Oh, fevvensakes," screamed Jolson as he rushed from the wings, "choke, already. But lemme get on!"

KALIS MURDER HEARING SET TO OPEN FEB. 27

Three Judges Assigned to Hear Case in Mansfield.

The first-degree murder trial of Michael Kalis will open here Feb 27 before Common Pleas Judges Leland R. Rutherford of Morrow county, Ralph Sugrue of Seneca county, and G. E. Kalbfleisch of Richland county.

Members of the three-judge court were announced by Judge Kalbfleisch after Kalis's defense attorneys pleaded the 52-year-old steelworker innocent by reason of insanity and waived trial by jury

Chief Justice Carl V. Weygandt of the Ohio supreme court assigned Judges Rutherford and Sugrue to sit with Kalbfleisch.

Defense attorneys Glenn W. Marriott and C. H. Freehafer decided upon the insanity plea after Kalis, accused of shooting to death his wife, Helen, and son John, at the family home, 388 Springmill street, last Oct. 17, was subjected to a mental examination at the Lima state hospital.

Dr. R. E. Bushong, superintendent of the hospital, reported to Judge Kalbfleisch that Kalis appeared to have been insane at the time of the shooting but sane when examined later at the hospital.

Chief Justice Weygandt at the same time assigned Judges Sugrue and Clarence U. Ahl of Crawford county to sit with Judge Kalbfleisch Feb. 24 in the trial of James Howe, alias James H. Howard, charged with attempted breaking and entering.

Howe's defense attorney is Philip J. Hermann of Cleveland.

County Tax Payments Slow; Penalty Goes On Thursday

With only three more days to go before the Feb. 20 deadline, County Treasurer Charles C. Payne still had nearly half of the first-half county real estate taxes to collect today.

Receipts today amounted to $564,733 as compared with the total half-year charge of $916,950, the treasurer reported.

Payne's office was open until 4 p. m. Saturday for the convenience of taxpayers and they paid more than $45,000 into the treasury during the day.

Although total payments are slightly ahead of collections at this time last year, the treasurer pointed out that there's still more to collect because higher tax rates this year in a number of county districts pushed the charge up

The total tax bill this year amounts to $1,773,478, some $26,000 higher than last year's and the largest since the early 1930's After Feb 20 penalties ranging up to 10 per cent will be in effect.

Girl Scouts Show Ability As Hostesses

A Valentine luncheon which would have done any hostess proud washeld Saturday by members of Girl Scout Troop 24 at the home of their leader, Mrs. Samuel Theaker, 304 Glessner avenue.

Taking over all responsibility of the party, members of the three patrols of the troop budgeted, purchased and prepared the food as a project toward their hostess badge.

Heart-shaped sandwiches, topped with red and pink-colored cream chees were served by Patrol 3, while Patrol 1 used the same heart theme for their cookies, covered with pink icing. Patrol 2 prepared the salad.

Of special interest were the table decorations and place markers made and designed by each patrol. One table was decorated with tiny flower pots and heart flowers, marking each place. Another was completely covered with a large red heart, with tiny white paper-lace doilies and a repetition of the hearts as place cards. The third table was covered by a large pink heart, decorated by dainty cut-out work of white crepe paper. Place markers for this table were made of plain white cards, with a's and o's in each member's name replaced by tiny printed hearts.

A Valentine exchange was held following the luncheon as greetings were pulled from an attractive Valentine box, made by members of Patrol 3. Mrs. Theaker presented each troop member with a Girl Scout comb or whistle.

Winners of game prizes were Patricia Schroeder, Patricia Sites, Edythe Browarsky and Faye Stahl.

Three members of the troop, ill at the time of the party received their refreshments and favors by troop members who visited their homes after the party. Shut-ins were Shirley Pirrigo, Maralyn Grabosky, and Joyce Miller.

At the regular Friday meeting the scouts will complete their notebooks on hostess work. Budgets are expected to be awarded at the Girl Scout birthday party next month

NEW 'DAHLIA' SUSPECT HELD

LOS ANGELES — (INS) — Police were hopeful today of linking the confessed murderer of an elderly local Swedish newspaper publisher with the Black Dahlia killing.

Ready to undergo questioning was Otto Paul Parzyjegla, 36, linotype operator for the publisher, Alfred Haij, 74. Police declared Parzyjegla admitted killing his employer Saturday morning and dismembering the body preparatory to disposing of it.

Homicide Captain Jack Donahoe said two factors made Parzyjegla a prime suspect in the Dahlia case—the mutilation of bodies in both cases and evidence that one of the letters received by police in the Black Dahlia killing came from a print shop.

After preliminary investigation, Capt. Donahoe flatly declared the printer to be "the hottest suspect yet in the 'Black Dahlia' killing"

The bisected and savagely hacked body of the Dahlia—22-year-old Elizabeth Short—was found on a Los Angeles lot Jan. 15.

BIG SURPRISE—

They're telling this one on Dimon Herring, who has become a pretty skeptical fellow about garbage cans. A few days ago, a few of the boys in the Western avenue area were playing "hi-spy", a sort of hide-and-go-seek. Looking for a place to hide, one of the neighborhood seven-year-olds found an empty garbage can in the Herring yard. In went the youngster, and presently out came Herring with some garbage. Herring took off the lid; up popped the child. Herring said he wasn't sure whether he or the boy was most startled.

RURAL BOARDS SET TO BUILD THIS SUMMER

Easing of Restrictions—To Permit Start of Projects In County Districts.

Richland county this summer will launch a $750,000 school building program.

Construction will start on school buildings for which voters in some districts approved bonds as long as six years ago. Total of the bond issues passed amounts to $749,780.

The building plans had been shelved by the various township school boards because of the chaotic conditions existing in the building field for several years.

Conditions have now cleared sufficiently to offer them hope of obtaining bids on their improvement projects, they said when contacted Saturday.

* * *

Districts Voting Bonds.

School districts in which bond issues were approved for new or additional buildings are Plymouth, Springfield, Union, Bellville, Madison, and Mifflin townships.

In the Madison district, board members are awaiting plans from Architect Charles Marr of New Philadelphia for building of 10 classrooms each at the Lincoln Heights and Woodville schools.

An extensive addition of 12 or 14 rooms to the Madison high school is being planned. A two to four-room addition is contemplated to the East Mansfield school. A bond issue of $380,000 was passed in that township in November, 1945.

* * *

Union Rural to Build.

Union rural school board members hope to have detailed plans from Architect Marr in time to advertise for bids for an 18 or 20 classroom building by the first week in April. The bond issue amounting to $120,000 was passed last November.

Plans are expected to be ready soon for a consolidated six-room grade school in Mifflin township to replace the one-room buildings at Windsor, Buena Vista, Center Hall and Forest Hall. The building will be erected on the present site of the Center Hall school on U. S. Route 30.

A bond issue of $48,780 was passed in the spring of 1946. If Architect Marr's plans are accepted the board plans to advertise for bids without delay.

* * *

Ontario Plan Approved.

At a meeting Wednesday night the Springfield township board approved prelimenary plans for an addition of 20 classrooms to the present Ontario school.

Detailed plans of the addition to be built as wings on each side of the building are expected from Architect Marr in about a month. Voters in Springfield township approved an $120,000 bond issue in November, 1945.

At Bellville board members expected to confer with Marr soon to further discuss building plans now only in the preliminary stage. The board hopes to replace a temporary four-room structure at the rear of high school and two rooms used in the township house.

* * *

Fund Insufficient.

The board has $120,000 available from a bond issue passed in November, 1945. They say this will not be sufficient to built the additional eight to 10 rooms needed.

Some thought has been given to possible federal aid but no action has been taken.

At Plymouth, building plans presented by Marr have been accepted and Marr will probably advertise for bids during the last week in April. The board there has $50,000 available from a bond issue passed in November 1945, plus $31,000 left over from a bond issued passed in 1941

* * *

Material on Hand.

Approximately $5,000 worth of building materials now on hand are to be used in constructing a new six-room elementary building on the site of the old grade school on West Broadway street.

The board at Savannah-Clear Creek-Butler Local School District in Ashland county reported yesterday that it had accepted a bid from the Stranahan-Harris and company of Toledo on building bonds amounting to $122,000.

The Toledo company was awarded the bonds on their bid of par, accrued interest to date of delivery, plus a premium of $2,166 and an agreement to print the bonds without charge to the district.

MARY DINTAMAN WINS SINGLES CROWN WITH 626

Sports Parade

By OSCAR FRALEY

NEW YORK—(UP)—Plop in the middle of Manhattan today is a hunter's and fisherman's paradise, four floors of gadgets, knick-knacks and necessities which bring the sportsman's shortage to an abrupt end.

This shooting and angling Eden is the 10th annual national sportsmen's show, bigger and better than you ever dreamed of during the days when you couldn't even buy a fish hook. Combining all the best features of a circus and a county fair, it will attract a record 300,000 vacation and leisure-minded citizens before it moves out of Grand Central palace on Feb. 23.

Meanwhile, said citizens are drooling over the newest things in sporting equipment and placing orders with greater rapidity than the already-weary clerks can handle. It actually is the storm after the calm of shortages.

NAME YOUR DISH, brother, and they've got it. A few of the most unusual items are electric barbecue meat turners, folding motorcycles, golf clubs, binoculars, glass fiber fishing rods, plywood rods and, believe it or not, all types of firearms from shotguns to big game rifles with telescope sights.

The gun, fishing tackle and boat displays are getting the biggest play in what is a field day for nimrods and followers of Izaak Walton. One of the featured items for anglers is a rod of beryllium copper, which has tremendous corrosion fatigue resistance to salt water spray.

There is a full-size four person canoe which comes in sections and can be dissembled into two bags which carry like suitcases. The whole works weighs 65 pounds. Boats range from rowboats to twin-cabin jobs with all the latest conveniences and in this connection there is a revolutionary oarlock which will be a boon to the guy who always hits every stump and rock in the creek.

* * *

THIS GADGET is called the "row-rite oarlock" and enables you to row facing in the direction you are heading. It fastens on to the gunwhale, where the oar breaks in half. Strong gears reverse the direction of the pull, so that as you pull toward you the outer section of the oar moves in the opposite direction. No more stiff necks and no more rowboat collisions.

So your wife wants a fur coat? Easy does it, bub. Simply buy a pair of chinchillas at the modest sum of $1,200 and raise your own. When you have 100 little chinchilla children bustling about the house you have enough fur on hand to visit the tailor.

Badgers Assured Share of Big 9 Basketball Crown

CHICAGO—(AP)—Regardless of what the other teams do, Wisconsin can clinch at least a share of the Big Nine basketball championship this week.

This can be accomplished by the bustling Badgers Saturday in their last home game of the season. Ohio State will be the opponent, and Wisconsin — gunning for NCAA representation—will be a heavy favorite. After Ohio State, the Badgers close their Big Nine title bid against Purdue Feb. 24 and Minnesota March 1.

Theoretically, Illinois and Indiana—each with only three defeats—are still in the chase, although Wisconsin, with a record of eight victories against one defeat, looks like a shoo-in. Northwestern is at Indiana tonight, while Iowa goes to Minnesota and Michigan to Purdue.

Illinois faces Northwestern in Chicago stadium Saturday, while Indiana plays at Iowa. Minnesota travels to Michigan and Wisconsin entertains the Buckeyes

Cleveland Rebels Win Second In Row

CLEVELAND — (INS) — Cleveland's high-stepping Rebels, Joe Fulks not withstanding, chalked up their second straight victory yesterday and third in the last four games.

Jumpin' Joe dropped in 23 points last night at the Cleveland Arena, but his powerful Philadelphia teammates were not so fortunate. Cleveland won the decision, 75-71. Frankie Baumholtz topped Cleveland scorers with 20 points.

The Rebels make their next start tomorrow night at the Arena against the Boston Celtics.

Lynn Waldorf Named Mentor At California

BERKELEY, Calif. —(AP)— Big Lynn Waldorf had a new job cut to his size today—reviving the golden era of football at the University of California.

The task of coaching the Golden Bears, who last went to the Rose Bowl in 1938 when they whipped Alabama 13-0, was accepted as a "challenge" last night by the man who has been gridiron mentor of Northwestern in the Big Nine the past 12 years.

He succeeds Frank Wickhorst whose contract was taken up amidst a clamor of students after the Bears won two games out of nine last season.

Different Contract.

"I understand that previously the associated students at California have been in charge of athletics to the extent of hiring and firing coaches," Waldorf said at Evanston, Ill. "I have been told all that will be changed and that the incoming staff will be responsible directly to the president. I was assured that would be my position."

What salary Waldorf will get was not disclosed, but the jovial "Pappy," is understood to have been receiving $10,000 a year at Northwestern, and he remarked last night that "California offers a challenge and an opportunity that I could not afford to turn down."

Free to choose his own Berkeley staff, as California bids for a return to the glory of such Bear machines as Andy Smith's 1921-22 "Wonder Teams," Waldorf will head west Tuesday to sign a three-year contract. He said he was considering as a possible assistant, Burt Ingwersen, "who was with me eight years before becoming coach at Illinois."

Upper Sandusky Can Gain Share In N-O Loop Lead

SHELBY — The Northern Ohio league schools will play in six games this week with the feature attraction taking Upper Sandusky to Bucyrus where a win for the Rams will give them a share of the Northern Ohio league title with Bellevue.

Bellevue, whose team closes the regular season at Elyria Saturday night in a non-league game, has won six out of seven games and holds undisputed first place in the standings this week. Upper Sandusky, winner of five out of six league tilts, is tied for second place with Norwalk.

The Wyandot county school can win a share of the title with Bellevue by defeating Bucyrus Friday night.

The Shelby Whippets will travel to Crestline and Willard to Galion in the other two league games scheduled Friday night.

On Tuesday night, Mt. Gilead plays at Crestline in a non-league tilt and on Friday night, Norwalk entertains Oberlin outside the circuit.

Robinson Hears NYAC Ruling

NEW YORK — (UP) — Ray (Sugar) Robinson, world welterweight champion, was scheduled to hear the New York State Athletic Commission's decision in his bribe-offer inquiry today.

Awaiting this decision could have been a scarcely pleasant interlude for the great Negro fighter if he kept in mind what happened to Rocky Graziano little more than a week ago, after a some-what similar inquiry.

Robinson's two-hour hearing last Friday attracted far less attention than Graziano's three-day circus. However, the issue in both inquiries was the same: Had the man on the carpet violated rule 64 of the state boxing code by failing to report a bribe offer to the commission?

Robinson claimed he interpreted a stranger's remarks about $5,000 as "just a bet" that the stranger was trying to make with George Gainsford, Robinson's manager.

Best Fight

WARREN, O. —(INS)— Gene Tunney maintained today that Rocky Graziano's fight last fall with Tony Zale was one of the best the former heavyweight had seen in 25 years.

Tunney made the statement in Warren, where he made a regular visit as chairman of the board of Denman Tire & Rubber company. The one-time boxing great said he knew nothing about the recent Graziano bribe case.

String at Stake

CINCINNATI — (AP) — Ebony Ezzard Charles, Cincinnati light heavyweight, puts a string of 11 ring victories on the line tonight when he meets Oakland Billy Smith in a 12-round headliner.

Charles, who is the NBA's No. 1 contender for the crown of Champion Gus Lesnevich, decisioned the California battler over the 10-round route last Sept. 23 and has been installed as a 4-5 favorite in tonight's get-together.

Contenders Battle

BALTIMORE — (AP) — Two of the top ranking contenders for middleweight Champion Tony Zale's crown, Bert Lytell of California and Charley Burley of Pittsburgh, fight it out tonight in ten rounds at the coliseum.

The Pittsburgh belter is ranked fourth among the middleweights, while Lytell is considered seventh by the National Boxing association.

Capital Quint 4 Games From Ohio Laurels

The Lutherans of Capital University today are only four games away from a complete haul of Ohio's college basketball honors as the final fifth of the 500-game collegiate campaign gets underway.

Capital, riding the crest of a five-game winning streak, tops both the state-wide standings and the Ohio conference heap, and can grab off both titles by running the string through those last four games. Cap has won 12 and lost two in the overall race and boasts a 10-1 rating in the conference.

Two Games.

This week, however, the Lutherans tangle with the only team to beat them in the league—Otterbein's Cardinals—Thursday night. The Cards were the last team to defeat the Lutherans, turning them back, 61-57, Jan. 22. Ohio Wesleyan turned the trick (74-69) a few nights before, but Cap gained revenge for that last week, edging the Bishops 52 to 50.

The Otterbein tilt will be the second of the week for the Caps. They're slated ot go against Denison Tuesday.

Should they get by those two, they have Heidelberg coming up Feb. 25 and Kenyon March 3—two teams over whom Capital already holds decisions.

But should Capital falter along the way, there are a pair of strong contenders in a position to take over in the conference—Baldwin-Wallace, with 7-1 record, and four games to go, and Akron, with 7-2, and three left.

The principal threats to the Lutherans in the overall chase are Bowling Green with 23-7; Wooster with 12-4, and Mount Union 11-4.

The title race in the mid-American conference will maintain a status quo this week, the five-member circuit having no games scheduled. Butler of Indianapolis leads with five straight triumphs and can clinch a share of the title by winning the loop's next outing against Wayne Feb. 28.

In the western conference, Ohio State's defending champions are hopelessly behind with three wins in eight starts, but get a chance to narrow the chase Saturday when they tangle with Wisconsin at Madison. Wisconsin has won eight of nine.

New York Rens Battle Toledo 5 Here Tonight

Final professional basketball contest of the season is on tap tonight at the Senior high school gymnasium.

Headlining the program will be the first appearance here in five years of the New York Renaissance, most colorful traveling pro team. The Rens have another great team and meet the Toledo Collegians in tonight's finale at 8:45.

Mansfield Yunckers Sports collide with the classy Loudonville Flxible Clippers in the preliminary contest at 7:30. Yunckers is tied with Urschel Insurance for first place in the second division of the City A cage league.

The Rens have been barnstorming throughout Ohio in recent weeks and made two appearances in the Cleveland Arena. They defeated the Columbus Pros, 53 to 42, Saturday night in Columbus.

Rabbit Younger, a midget in stature, is the most colorful member of the current Ren cast. He's an expert dribbler and shot. Hillery Brown, former Globe Trotter captain, and Hank Dezonie give the Rens plenty of heighth.

"Puggy" Bell and "Sonny" Woods are the only members of the pre-war team still starring for the Rens.

College players from the Toledo area make up the cast of the Toledo Collegians. Al Alverez and Jack Mahnen played for some of Toledo university's greatest teams while Tommy Williams starred with Bowling Green several years ago.

Ticket gate opens at 6:30 and all of the proceeds go to the City A league

Flying Parson Sticks To Mile

NEW YORK—(AP)—The brief honeymoon of the milers appears to be over.

Galloping Gil Dodds, the Flying Parson, who last Saturday passed up the mile for the two-mile race today "guessed" he would be back at his specialty—the mile, that is—at the National A.A.U. track and field championships at Madison Square Garden next Saturday.

Dodds showed 14,000 persons at the New York Athletic club games in Madison Square Garden Saturday night that there isn't a runner who can touch him. Switching to the two-mile after winning three straight mile races in his comeback campaign with creditable times of 4:09.1, 4:09.2 and 4:08.9, Dodds led throughout the 22 laps on the Garden's banked board track and wrapped up the Toussaint two-mile fixture by the comfortable margin of 80 yards and with a clocking of 9:05.6.

Baron Puck Club Blows Hot, Cold

The "now hot, now cold" Cleveland Barons blew alternately hot and then cold in a pair of weekend contests which left them today with a scant one-point margin over Indianapolis in the western division race.

Cut down by Indianapolis, 4-3, Saturday night, the Barons bounced back last night to snap their three-game losing streak, 4-2, in an American Hockey league contest at Providence.

Capt. Eddie Rickenbacker, World War I aviation ace, has added to his list of triumphs by catching a sailfish at Miami Beach. His companion on the fishing expedition was another flier, Al Williams, former Navy speed king.

Now Comes Time For Giant Rookie To Take First Cut

By JOE REICHLER

A momentous occurrence was scheduled at the New York Giants training base at Phoenix, Ariz., today.

Clint Hartung, the Paul Bunyanish young man who has been proclaimed in some circles as the greatest batter, the greatest pitcher and the greatest figure to come to a training camp in many a year, will take his first cut at a ball.

No matter what else happens at the Giants' first training session, it is a safe bet that everybody's eyes will be on the big, rangy rookie from Hondo, Texas, whose diamond exploits in the army and the minor leagues before that, caused followers of the national pastime to regard him with awe.

At the New York training camp in San Juan, Puerto Rico, in addition to the disheartening news that Joe DiMaggio, hard-hitting outfielder, might not be available for several weeks due to a slow healing knee, two other casualties were added to the squad.

Jack Phillips, a six-foot, four inch infielder, came up with a kink in his neck along with a terrific facial sunburn, while First Baseman Nick Etten was sidelined by a lame back.

The Brooklyn Dodgers won't leave for their training base in Havana until tomorrow, but they broke into the news with the arrival in New York of Manager Lippy Leo Durocher.

KISSING DONKEYS

REPEAT SOMETHING OFTEN enough and people may start believing you—whether or not it's true.

That's why, in the old days, people thought you could get warts from handling toads, ought to plant potatoes in the light of a full moon—and could cure a toothache by kissing a donkey.

Adolf Hitler repeated his lies so often—in his newspapers, over his radios, etc.—that millions of people believed him. He came darned near enslaving the world by using the technique of the "big lie."

* * * *

RIGHT NOW MR. BIG BUSINESS is repeating a big "whopper" so often that he's got lots of folks believing him.

Mr. B. B. tries to tell us, "Labor unions won wages increases for working people. Naturally, big business had to raise prices."

Industrial executive are spreading this statistical fraud throughout the United States.

* * * *

WHO'D YOU RATHER BELIEVE—some $200,000-a-year industrialist, with an axe to grind, or sober facts from your own Government?

Well, the Government* says that industry has taken back $10 in price increases for every $1 it has paid out in wage increases.

Ten to one! That's a pretty good score—in favor of industrial profits!

* * * *

AND IF IT'S THE HIGH COST of food prices you're worrying about (who isn't?) take a look at these additional figures:

Wages of men and women in the food industries have gone up only a few pennies an hour since August, 1945.

And that despite the fact that the biggest food producers are reporting record-breaking profits. The big meat packers, for example, increased their profits in 1945 by 41 percent over 1939—and 80 percent in 1946 over 1945!

* * * *

SO DON'T LET ANYONE TELL you that you can cure a toothache by kissing a donkey.

And don't let Mr. B. B. tell you that industry cannot give its employees a living wage, with a decent standard of living, without raising prices further!

FAMILY MESSAGE NUMBER 12

Doctor?... Lawyer?... Merchant?... Chief?

Your child will have a better chance in life, says well-known authority, if he gets the right kind of help in solving one of the most important problems of youth.

"Can your nine-year-old boy do compound interest in his head? Then it is not unlikely that he might make a good mathematician or certified public accountant . . . Can your little girl play Mozart at the age of six? Then she would seem to have a better-than-average chance of carving out a career in music.

"Such children are the exceptions," says Dr. Harry Dexter Kitson, Professor of Vocational Guidance, Teachers College, Columbia University. "Most children do not display any marked tendency or talent. Yet every child, if properly guided and stimulated, can make himself a happy, productive worker in one of the 20,000 existing ways by which Americans earn their living.

"You should not impose an occupation on your child. Neither should you attempt single-handed to analyze his various strengths and weaknesses.

Where to get advice

"You can get help from qualified vocational counselors in some high schools, social agencies, State employment services and community centers. You and the child can get the advice of people experienced in various trades, businesses, or professions. Helpful information can be had from sound books on the subject which any librarian will be glad to recommend.

"A word of caution: Avoid quacks who offer vocational guidance based on the stars and planets, physical features, 'bumps on the head,' and so forth.

"There are certain other things that you can always do to help your child to plan for his life work. You can encourage him in summer vacation work to try out various fields, as well as in hobbies that may develop into vocations.

"Last but not least, you can lay aside part of the family income regularly in order to give him all the general education that he can absorb, and the vocational training he will need."

HOW TO PLAN FOR FAMILY HAPPINESS

Regardless of the size of income, any family can have more happiness and fewer worries by planning the use of the family money.

First: provide in advance for payments coming due, such as rent, taxes, mortgage charges, life insurance and other insurance. The easiest way is to bank small amounts each payday that will add up to the totals when due.

Second: set aside something extra each payday in the savings account until you build up an emergency fund.

Then you know what is left to spend on everyday family needs such as food, clothing, recreation—and what you can afford to set aside for such future family plans as a new home, education, travel.

• • •

Because the life insurance companies and their agents have long helped people to plan for family security and happiness, they are conducting this program of information as a public service to the 72,000,000 owners of life insurance and to every American family.

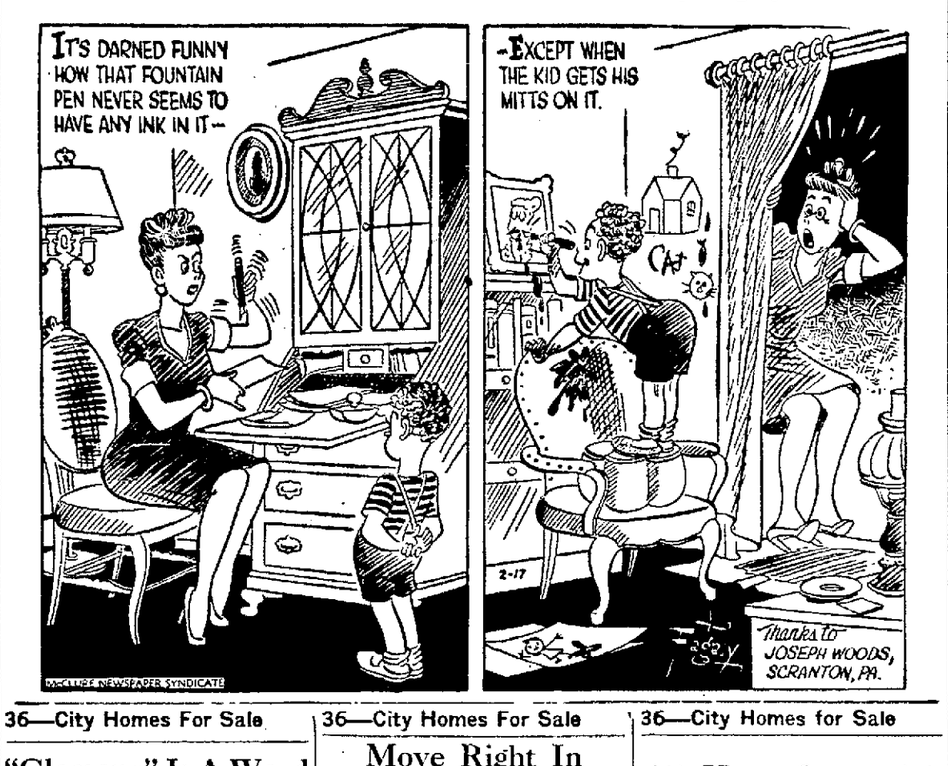
THERE OUGHTA BE A LAW!

By Fagaly and Shorten



36—City Homes For Sale

"Glamour" Is A Word

That might apply to this beautiful Cape Cod residence with attached garage, located a few miles out on Ashland Road. This property is completely different than anything we've listed in some time, and we just know anyone who sees it will like it. There is a large living room across one side of the house with open fireplace, center entrance with guest closet and open stairway, lovely dining room with built-in cabinet, and a kitchen that is something you dream about but seldom see. There are glass blocks all around the sink and cupboards, giving plenty of light, and a lovely breakfast bar. It is indeed a beautiful place in which to work. Upstairs has two charming bedrooms, built-in bath with shower, and a completely different treatment on the upstairs doors. You must see this property to appreciate it. The whole inside is finished completely in wormy chestnut, which gives a very nice effect. Utility room with oil burning furnace, automatic water tank. 1½ acres of level laying land also go with this property. Well worth the price of $12,600.

Try and Stop Me

—By Bennet Cerf

Variations on the old Adam and Eve theme are numberless. According to one story, Adam was trudging home to his cave in the hills on a summer evening when his son, Cain, caught up with him.

"Hey, Pop," Cain said, "look at that beautiful garden over there. Wouldn't it be great fun if we could live there?"

"We did," answered Adam bitterly, "until your beloved mother ate us out of house and home."

* * *

Another wit would have believed that a young WAC on one home to Toledo after a sojourn in Paris and told her friends, "I've been all through the Louvre and the picture I liked best was one of Adam and Eve." Then she added thoughtfully, "Maybe it was because I had heard the anecdote."

* * *

Larry Adler had just finished playing "The Flight of the Bumblebee" when a lady in the audience called up. "Oh, Mr. Adler, won't you please play that Bumblebee piece?" "I just did play it," said Adler. "Confound it," said the lady, "why didn't somebody tell me? It's my favorite piece."

WILD JUNGLE INDIANS WON'T BURY HATCHET

Peace Expedition Fails as Tribe Abruptly Returns to War Path.

RIO DE JANEIRO—(U.P.)—The savage Chavanti Indians of the Matto Grosso jungle of interior Brazil, who for 150 years carried on a relentless warfare against white men, have refused again to bury the hatchet.

In August of this year an expedition organized by the National Indian Protection Service went into the sweltering Matto Grosso jungle to try to make peace with the Indians.

Their purpose was to placate the natives for the poisoning of 500 braves by Portuguese explorers back in 1796. Ever since that date, the Indians have waged perpetual war against all white men.

The expedition marched along the Rio das Mortas (Death river) deep into the primitive hunting grounds of the Chavantes. Few white men have ever come out of the region alive.

The expedition proceeded cautiously, fearing a surprise attack. Instead, they found headless arrows struck in the ground — the symbolic peace offer.

Soon afterward they encountered an unarmed group of Indians, which showered the party with leaves and bark to cleanse them of evil spirits. Tokens were exchanged and the expedition came to an understanding with the "cacique" (chief).

More Gifts Arranged.

The peace appeared assured. It was arranged that the expedition would retire and come again for another meeting, bringing more gifts for a final peace settlement.

The second mission set out in October, laden with gifts to seal the pact of peace. The mission, however, found the Indians in a different attitude. Something had happened in the meantime.

The expedition struck camp on the spot indicated as the "peace rendezvous" and waited the Chavante delegation. None came. The gifts were placed in strategic position so that they could be seen from some distance, in hope of enticing the Indians.

Concealed by the darkness of tropical nights, the savages picked up their presents. The members of the expedition let them have a free hand, hoping that a peace delegation would follow.

Then one morning the members of the expedition saw a huge bonfire about half a mile from their camp. Scouts were sent to investigate. They saw the grotesquely painted "cacique" performing the rites of a ceremony that invoked the protection of their war gods.

The chief threw the effigy of a white man into the flames. Then 400 braves gave loud war-whoops and sent a shower of arrows toward the expedition. None reached its mark because of the distance.

TEEN TALK

By BARBARA BAILEY

One of the most perplexing problems to us teen-agers is whether or not we should get a job after school or just on Saturdays. Some say yes and others reply no. So here is what some of your friends think about it.

Jeanine Skelton says postively yes, with just one string attached—keep school work up. If this is too hard to do, then only work on Saturday.

"Definitely yes. That extra money sure comes in handy on Friday and Saturday nights," declares Jim Stevenson firmly.

Mary Ann Bahl is all for it, if the job doesn't last too long in the evenings.

"Yes," states Douglas Black. "I think it's a swell idea. After all, when a person gets to be our age he should begin to earn his own spending money instead of asking his parents for it all the time.

Pat Jackson claims, "A job keeps kids busy and prepares them for life after graduation."

"I think the best part about a job is the experience that it gives you," asserts Waldon Knox.

Dorothy McCleary affirms that it's 'O.K.' as long as it doesn't last past 5:30 or 6 o'clock.

Dogs beware! If you got a brand new shiny collar for Christmas, guard it with your very life! For some morning you may waken up and find that it has mysteriously vanished. The question is 'who is the culprit?' Well, cheer up, for you will probably see it again in the very near future. Although it will not be in the form of a collar, but transformed into a spiffy new belt which one of the family is now wearing. My, my, what will the girls think of next.

Since those wintry blasts should be disappearing sometime within the next few weeks, let's take a quick peek at what this spring's blouses have to offer.

The year's most original and fussiest will be the ones with three-quarter length push-up sleeves. Umm, these blouses are really stunning with their fancy buttons and pretty pastel colors.

His two children, a 32-year-old professor at the University of Athens and a daughter, 21, still are in Greece, but the Staths are looking forward to bringing their children here soon.

Brownies Entertain Mothers at School Party

Members of Brownie Troop No. 48 celebrated their first anniversary Thursday at Western avenue school with a Valentine party. Thirty were present, including mothers of the members, who were guests. Mrs. Arthur Negin and Mrs. Owen Fighter are leaders of the group. Mrs. Carl Miller was chairman of the arrangements.

Games were the diversion with the prize being presented to Mrs. James Lymper. Both the mothers and daughters presented short playlets. Valentine appointments were used when refreshments were served.

THE ARMY GROUND FORCES—
WORLD'S GREATEST SCHOOL FOR LEADERSHIP

"FOLLOW ME!" The ringing battle-cry of the Infantryman is the stirring command of the leader. And nowhere else in the world—in war and in peace—are so many great leaders developed as in the Army Ground Forces. The American ground soldier is known for his ability to carry out any assignment with resourcefulness and initiative—the qualities that make leaders in civilian life as well as the Army.

The Ground Forces can not only teach you leadership—they can equip you with fine job training to go with it. In peacetime, the Army makes training available in many valuable skills and trades.

Remember, too, that increased Army pay scales are now in effect, and that you receive 20% additional pay for overseas service.

Thousands of outstanding young men, able to meet the new higher standards required, are enlisting in the Regular Army. And because of the special advantages offered, the majority of them are enlisting for 3 years. If you are looking for the road to a profitable future, your nearest U. S. Army Recruiting Station can furnish all details.

• Listen to: "Sound Off," "Warriors of Peace," "Voice of the Army," and "Proudly We Hail" on your radio.

Highlights of Regular Army Enlistment

1. Choice of any branch of service which still has quotas to be filled, and of certain overseas theaters which still have openings, on 3-year enlistments.
2. Enlistment age from 18 to 34 years inclusive (17 with parents' consent) except for men now in Army, who may reenlist at any age, and former service men depending on length of service.
3. A reenlistment bonus of $50 for each year of active service since such bonus was last paid, or since last entry into service, provided reenlistment is within 3 months after last honorable discharge.
4. Leave credit accrues at the rate of 30 days per year of service.
5. Mustering-out pay for all men eligible therefor, when discharged to enlist or reenlist.
6. Educational benefits under GI Bill of Rights for men who enlist before official termination of war and remain in service 90 days or more.
7. Family allowances for dependents of men enlisting or reenlisting continue until 6 months after official termination of war.
8. Enlistments for 1½, 2 or 3 years. (1-year enlistments permitted for men now in the Army with 6 or more months of service.)
9. Option to retire at half pay for the rest of your life after 20 years' service—increasing to three-quarters pay after 30 years' service. All previous honorable active federal military service counts toward retirement.

GENERAL SAYS HE WON'T RUN

Eisenhower Definitely Puts Self Out of Presidential Picture For 1948.

WASHINGTON —(INS)— Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower has removed himself completely from the presidential picture in answer to importunities by friends in Kansas who would like to put him up as a "favorite son" in the 1948 campaign.

The man who led the combined allied armies to a smashing victory over Hitler's forces in Europe in the second World War is a soldier who wants to stay a soldier.

The army chief of staff, who holds the highest rank possible in the armed services of the nation —that of a five star general—has told well-wishing friends that he will not accept the nomination for the presidency in either party.

Pressure Applied.

This was his answer to repeated pressures brought to bear upon him by high-ranking politicos in the Middle West in the past few months.

The chief of staff wants to devote his entire energies to preventing the present tendency in the congress toward cutting budget appropriations to the point where he believes it will cripple America's armed defenses, and to serve out his time as a general of the armies entirely removed from politics as such.

The interesting thing about Eisenhower's "no" has been the reasons which he presented, and which came to light today.

These were:

1. He does not believe that a "man on horseback" should be president. He has ruled out in his own mind all military commanders of high rank as candidates for the presidency.

2. He sincerely believes that he could not run against his commander in chief, who is the president of the United States.

3. As a man, he has told friends that in being commander in chief of the allied forces in the European theater of the second World War, he achieved his one "big moment" when, after a bitterly waged war, the commanders of what was left of the Hitler forces in Europe surrendered to him "unconditionally."

Barclay On Bridge

By SHEPARD BARCLAY

Fundamentally, the reason for bidding first the higher-ranking of two equal-length suits of five cards or more is quite the contrary of what the average neophyte would think. It is not for the purpose of showing that suit first, but to show the lower-ranking suit second. When the lower suit is bid, the partner is then in position to show his preference without raising the contract. Violation of this procedure—which is universally followed by strong players when the suits are adjacent, such as both majors, both red suits or both minors — can cause lots of trouble.

(Dealer: South. North - South vulnerable.)

South learned an important lesson from this deal. He had not been playing the game very long, but had shown quite a bit of natural aptitude for the game. So it seemed quite logical to him to open the bidding with the better of his two red suits, diamonds. When the auction got around to him again, he realized the mistake he made on the first turn. Among a choice of evils, he selected by far the better one, however, by now bidding his heart suit at the level of three.

That put North on the spot. Not too experienced a player himself, he saw some kind of objection to anything he might do. He applied a process of elimination. First he decided against raising the hearts since South's bid of that after opening with diamonds made it likely it was only a four-carder, opposite which three hearts would not be safe and sound support. Second, he eliminated 3-No Trumps as unthinkable with the adverse spades not stopped. Third, he could not rebid his four clubs. Fourth, he decided against a diamond raise which might cause South to try an eleven-trick contract. So he passed.

The game that was lost in hearts could have been reached easily if South had opened with that suit as in the second sequence. The declarer could not possibly have lost more than two tricks in diamonds and one in clubs unless he was a misplaying genius.

Plenty of Fish On Hand For Lent

WASHINGTON —(AP)— Let the weatherman do his worst, there'll be plenty of fish for lent which starts Wednesday, the fish and wildlife service promised last night.

The service estimated that the nation's store of frozen fish and shellfish Feb. 1 was 127,000,000 pounds, an increase of 12,000,000 over the supply on hand a year earlier. In addition, private freezers are well stocked.

HEART DISEASES AS CITY'S NO. 1 KILLER CAN BE CURBED, DOCTOR SAYS

By JOHN MINE

Give your heart a break and there's a good chance you'll live longer—especially if you're over 40.

That's the advice of Dr. Fred O. Tonney, city-county health commissioner.

He points out that heart diseases are No. 1 killers in Mansfield and the nation and are primarily diseases of the late middle age and old age groups.

Last year they took 221 lives in Mansfield. This compares with the city's second rank killer, cancer, which took 58 lives. Tuberculosis was in sixth place. It was responsible for 15 deaths.

Although heart diseases are Public Enemy No. 1, something can be done about them, Dr. Tonney asserts.

* * *

"BECAUSE THEY HEED the advice of their doctors, many persons with heart defects are living useful, comfortable lives," Dr. Tonney said.

"They're giving their hearts a chance to keep them alive and happy," he declared. And many of them probably will live as long as they could reasonably expect to without heart trouble. Some even have a chance of complete recovery, he said.

Best advice for persons in the upper age brackets, Dr. Tonney said, is to have regular physical examinations every year, or possibly every six months.

"Then follow the advice of your physician," he said.

The major heart ailments are caused by infectious diseases, the commissioner pointed out. They weaken the heart.

Unless steps are taken by the individual to relieve the burden placed on a weakened or damaged heart, death or serious trouble follows, he said.

* * *

PRIMARY ADVICE to persons who have damaged or weakened hearts—or want to prevent their hearts from being weakened—is "live a moderate life," Dr. Tonney said.

Avoid excesses, he said. Don't go in for heavy eating, drinking, and smoking. Don't participate in strenuous exercises. Avoid excitement, he warned.

He also advised plenty of rest and the stide-stepping of "mental tensions."

"Watch your weight," the commissioner said. If you're overweight it places an unnecessary burden on the heart.

For persons who've been examined and found free of heart ailments, Dr. Tonney urged that they subscribe to all the suggestions listed for those who have ailments. In addition, he warned: "Keep away from people with infectious diseases."

"And," he asserted, "once you learn—you have no heart trouble or are comparatively free of it, DON'T WORRY ABOUT IT."

Heed your physician but don't worry. Many persons with minor heart ailments make them worse by sheer nervousness, he declared.

COURT CLEARS DURANT'S KIN IN JEWEL CASE

Evidence Not Sufficient in 'Co-Conspirator' Charge Against Brother.

WASHINGTON — (INS) — The military court trying Col. Jack W. Durant for theft of the Hesse crown jewels ruled today that evidence was insufficient to show that the accused's brother was a "co-conspirator."

This ruling followed a charge by Capt. D[illegible], jr., assistant judge advocate, that James E. Durant, Falls Church, Va., councilman, acted as an "agent" for his brother.

The court declared that "evidence is not sufficient to show that he (James E. Durant) was a con-conspirator."

Maj. Joseph Robinson, trial judge advocate, asserted that there would be more evidence to support this charge.

The major said that evidence shows already that some of the stolen property was seized in James Durant's home.

Called 'Custodian.'

Robinson, in terming Durant a "custodian" of some of the gems, admitted that he was unable to answer categorically at this time whether the councilman knew the property was illegally attained.

Charges that the civilian Durant was a co-conspirator in the fabulous case was based on testimony by Miquel Carrasco, of Falls church, a cartographer for the U. S. geodetic survey.

Carrasco testified that Col. Durant in company with his of brother showed several diamonds of various sizes which he offered as payment for a new car.

The witness said that he was curious where the gems came from and "got the impression from the conversation that they came from India."

Gave Car For Gem.

Another witness at the opening of the second week of Durant's court martial trial in the Pentagon was John S. Burrows, Washington automobile dealer.

He testified that he sold Durant an automobile costing $1,375.29 and bought a diamond from him for $500.

Military court records showed that Col. Durant attempted to find out before the gems disappeared what the penalty was for adhering to a "finders keepers" policy on valuables acquired overseas.

The $706,148,579 in previous appropriations the committee recommended for cancellation exceeded by $10,260,000 the amounts proposed by President Truman.

The president had recommended no recession in OPA funds, but the committee cut off $9,000,000; he had suggested a cut of $1,200,000 for the civilian production administration, and the committee doubled that; also it approved a $60,000 recovery of allotments to the office of war mobilization and reconversion, whereas the president had recommended none.

Sour food, acid indigestion and gas frequently cause a morbid, touchy, fretful, peevish, nervous condition, loss of appetite, underweight, restless sleep, weakness.

To get real relief you must increase the flow of this vital gastric juice. Medical authorities, in independent laboratory tests on human stomachs, have by positive proof shown that SSS Tonic is amazingly effective in increasing this flow when it is too little or scanty due to a non-organic stomach disturbance. This is due to the SSS Tonic formula which contains special and potent activating ingredients.

Also, SSS Tonic helps build-up non-organic, weak, watery blood in nutritional anemia—so with a good flow of this gastric digestive juice, plus rich red-blood you should eat better, sleep better, feel better, work better, play better.

AN INDEPENDENT NEWSPAPER

PAGE FOUR — MANSFIELD, OHIO, MONDAY, FEBRUARY 17, 1947

Today's "dream home" frequently turns out to be no more than that.

One statistician bluntly asserts: "Multiple births are more frequent in large families"—and also, it might be added, are a contributing factor.

Whatever happens in these coming days, it is essential that the United States and Canada should understand each other and stand together in emergencies.

Civic Auditorium Still In Talking Stage

A NEWCOMER to Mansfield, much impressed by last week's highly successful Chamber of Commerce meeting, wonders why this city lacks "a civic center," a public autitorium, or a commodious building suited to accommodating good-sized conventions and such dinner-meetings as that of last Friday evening.

Background of this situation, for the benefit of any other recent comers to Mansfield who may have been wondering the same thing, is that such a project has been talked about for many years—but the financing end of it has not yet reached a tangible point.

It always takes time, of course, for any such obvious need to develop the organized support required for its accomplishment—just as there had to be a build-up of interest before Mansfielders became willing contributors to the fund raised around thirty years ago for the construction of their General hospital.

Much has been accomplished since, for the advancement of Mansfield, but as yet the public auditorium idea has not taken sufficient hold on enough people to "put it across."

Has anyone a suggestion as to how a desirably located civic auditorium can be financed, built and in readiness for dedication at the annual Chamber of Commerce dinner in, say, 1955?

When Driver's Attention Is Distracted

DANGER resulting from an instant of inattention while driving an automobile is brought forcefully to the attention of youthful drivers—and all drivers, for that matter—by the accident in which three Mansfield young people were injured near Northfield last Friday afternoon.

It was the crashing of an auto into the rear of a tractor-trailer that caused the trouble, and the driver of the Mansfield car is quoted as having told the investigating officer that he had glanced toward an airport, to see a plane taking off, just before the crash.

That was all that was needed—just that few seconds of carelessness—to result in what is called an "accident," with serious injuries to three persons, and considerable damage to a borrowed car.

Specific reference is made to this occurrence in the hope that it will serve to impress other drivers of motor vehicles with the importance of being constantly alert while at the wheel of a moving car.

To Remove Snow From Metered Spaces

ONE CAUSE of much complaint by motorists is being acted upon—that of snow-removal from parking meter areas on downtown streets.

It was easy to understand why this could not be done satisfactorily while cars were parked along the streets, as even a few cars in a block interfere with use of cleaning equipment.

"Hooding" of the meters, however, indicating "No Parking," overcomes this difficulty, and it is heartening to note that this procedure is to be followed in the future.

Income from parking meters is primarily designed for use in improving traffic conditions, and surely the removal of snow from metered spaces so they can be used is a part of expected service for the payment motorists are required to make.

Preference Seen For 'Long' Novels

WHAT do readers of novels like? Upton Sinclair, who has been writing successful novels for 40 years in the intervals between his attacks on social abuses, has two definite ideas based on his own experience. He says that people like long novels, and like to read about the rich.

As to long novels, the conspicuous successes of "Anthony Adverse" and "Gone With the Wind," to say nothing of "Forever Amber," bear out Sinclair's conclusion. His own novels are far from short. The cynical might say that people don't necessarily read them, but just keep them on the living room table; and that as a table ornament a long book is more impressive than a short one. The author, of course, has no complaint as long as people buy his books.

As to books about the rich, Sinclair's "World to Win," a story about the world's leaders, sold in four months three times as many copies as "The Jungle," the book that in 1906 reformed the practices of Chicago stockyards. That may have been because Sinclair is now much better known than in the days of "The Jungle." It is quite likely that many people enjoy imagining themselves as millionaires, and novels about the rich may help them to do so.

Placing Those '40-Plus' Executives

FORTY-PLUS clubs are active again. They first sprang up a few years ago, seeking to find places for business executives 40 years of age and older. For not only among factory workers and white-collar employes is age an obstacle to getting a job.

Many of the applicants have been in the service, coming back to find the old company out of business. Others have learned administrative work in the armed forces, and would like to test their new talents. For some of these men there are $25,000 jobs going begging.

Here is where the Forty-Plus clubs come in. Theirs might be called a kind of blue-blood placement service. They are trying to get over to large business organizations the idea that youth is not everything. Once lodged, this idea might extend to the personnel departments of their factories, and make it easier for middle-aged men to keep working.

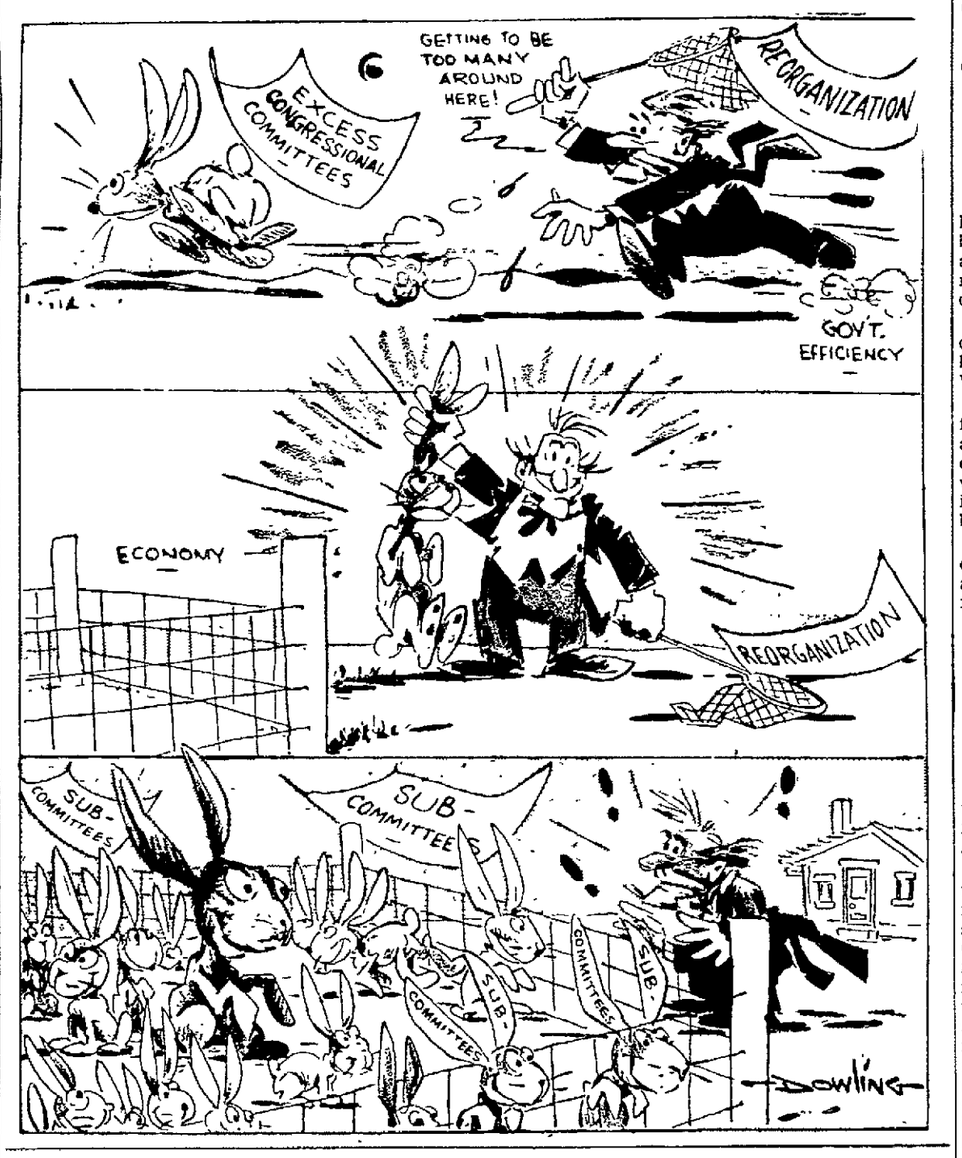
It is the South Bend Tribune that suggests—now that both Volstead and Capone have passed away—that there be a return of the "old-fashioned, wholesome saloon."

Classified ad in a Missouri paper: "Will trade a diamond engagement ring for a double-barreled shotgun"—which sounds interesting.

Clyde Moore observes: "When Opportunity knocks it doesn't sing, 'Open the Door, Richard'."

Who complain about "zero" temperatures that's nothing!

NOW LOOK WHAT'S HAPPENED!



Republicans Team With McKellar, Noted For Mediocrity and Temper

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON — If, one year ago, anyone had told Republican leaders that February 1947 would find them leaping aboard the senatorial band-wagon of aged Kenneth McKellar, the tempestuous solon from Tennessee, they would have laughed in derision.

Nevertheless, that has now happened.

An increasing number of Republican senators, after gleefully watching McKellar carry on his one-man crusade against David Lilienthal as chairman of the atomic energy commission, have now decided to make political capital out of a personal feud and have joined him.

Irony is that only a few months ago, many of these same Republicans were grousing about McKellar's sometimes senile senate leadership, and using him as an illustration of why the nation must junk the allegedly decrepit Democratic party.

In fact, it was only last spring that McKellar's mental lapses were such that he had to leave the senate for the Naval hospital. The 77-year-old Tennessean had passed out in a senate appropriations committee hearing, experienced another lapse in the coffee shop of the Mayflower hotel, and finally had to be inveigled out of the presiding officer's chair in the senate.

The latter incident was most embarrassing. As president pro tem of the senate, McKellar was wielding the gavel one afternoon when it became obvious he did not know what he was doing. And when kindly Senate Secretary Leslie Biffle came to his rescue, McKellar remarked: "When does the senate meet, Les?"

Biffle explained that the senate was already in session, but McKellar remonstrated, claiming that he knew perfectly well where he was—in his Mayflower hotel room. Biffle reminded the senator that his colleagues were debating the British loan, to which McKellar replied: "We passed that yesterday."

Finally, Biffle signaled Senator Abe Murdoch of Utah to prepare to take over the chair, and faked a message to McKellar that President Truman was calling him on the telephone.

* * *

Passion For Mediocrity.

Senator McKellar's mental lapses at the age of 77 could be forgiven if they climaxed a career notable for statesmanlike achievement. Instead they climax 32 senatorial years of personal feuding, petty patronage-grabbing and pork-barrel politics always so severely criticized by the Republican party at election time, but sometimes—as now—winked at between elections.

For instance, when Republican senators last year favored a reasonable budget for school lunches, Senator McKellar, chairman of the powerful appropriations committee, arbitrarily curtailed the school lunch fund, while simultaneously apropriating money for a new federal building in Nashville, Tenn. The government had not urged construction of this building—since it was bound to divert critical materials from veterans housing. But that made no difference to McKellar. He was running for re-election.

Last year also, when Republicans were preaching economy, McKellar proposed building two dams simultaneously in the Tennessee Valley. TVAdministrator David Lilienthal, whom McKellar now so vigorously attacks, opposed McKellar on this.

He claimed the government could save two million dollars by building the dams, not simultaneously, but consecutively—one after the other. This would permit moving bulldozers, men and machinery from one dam to the second, after the first was completed.

But McKellar, who was up for re-election, wanted a lot of money spent in Tennessee.

* * *

Inspired By Revenge.

In fact, there is almost nothing in the 32 years since Kenneth McKellar barely squeaked through the Tennessee primaries with a margin of only 2,700 votes that should endear him to Republicans as a leader—except his ability as a troublemaker.

It is the revenge motive which inspires McKellar's battle against Lilienthal, the man who has consistently blocked McKellar's attempts to make TVA his patronage boodle-bag. And instead of probing the operations of the McKellar-Crump machine, which long have needed a thorough airing, senate Republicans are jumping on the McKellar anti-Lilienthal bandwagon. No wonder the staunch Republican New York Herald Tribune warns that it was not for this that the American people elected a Republican congress.

Note — If senate Republicans wanted to strike legitimate political paydirt they would investigate who got the $100,000 lush insurance commissions from the construction of Camp Polk at Alexandria, La., also who got $75,000 insurance commissions on the Dixie Homes housing project; also who got the insurance commissions on the Memphis PWA sewer project.

Chairman Carroll Reece of the GOP national committee, long a Tennessee congressman, could help a lot with such a probe—if he wanted to. But he probably won't.

"I INTEND to act as the agent of the American people without regard to my personal political fortunes," says President Truman. Well there you have one more mortal man trying to do the impossible.

Maybe it's been done before in this country, but not in a good many years.

If Harry Truman can do a trick like that he won't have to worry about being the best candidate for president—he will be the best candidate for a Superman program.

Just look over the American scene today and try to find an elected official who isn't giving politics a thought and comes smack out with his decisions and acts even when he knows they may scuttle his chances in office.

Farmer's Diary: "Timber!"

"NEARLY two-thirds of Ohio's forested area is in farm woods, with an average size of 19 acres per farm having woodland," says Timber Marketing in Eastern Ohio, by H R Moore and O. D. Diller, a study of timber marketing in the district that has been producing more timber than any other section of like area in the state. "Therefore Ohio's production of timber is largely dependent upon the management of these small tracts."

The study of timber sales since 1940 was made in the mixed oak forest area from central Knox to Columbiana county, in order to find out how to improve present marketing conditions. At present about one sixth of the area is wooded and reforestation is beginning on some farmed-out tracts.

Most forests are sold for lump sums—that is, the lumber merchant estimates the value of the timber and makes an offer. The essential fact is that too few woodland owners have the information necessary to set a fair price on their own timber. The use to which the timber is to be put naturally determines what a merchant can pay for it. There are more small tracts of good timber than large tracts of good timber.

Every farm needs lumber for repairs . . . posts, etc. The most profitable utilizatjon of some woodland on each farm is for home use. Where woodland owners are in position to market their own timber as lumber, the returns have been financially profitable since 1940, due to vigorous demand. But it is not worthwhile to set up a portable saw-mill for a small amount.

The usual cutting cycle of these woodlands was an average of 45 years between harvests. However, those small tracts where successive harvests were cut and sold at about 8½ year intervals were the most profitable. The price advantage favors selective cutting of mature trees, at regular intervals.

Farmers generally would profit by more systematic woodland management. Greater emphasis should be given to the trucking of logs to a central point for milling in order to accommodate smaller and more frequent harvests from a greater proportion of woodlands.

"Human Nature" Has Some Strange Quirks.

WASHINGTON — No matter how long you study its vagaries, human nature, in its strange reactions to various situations, remains a mystery to the most studious man.

A seemingly commonplace murder has brought such a situation before philosophers' eyes here in Washington today.

A few nights ago, a man was fatally shot during a scuffle in an abortive holdup outside a grocery store. After the deadly shot was fired, the holdup man fled into the darkness, leaving his hat behind him in his frenzied flight.

That hat became one or two or three clues which brought an arrest and a confession in almost record time.

But meanwhile, the father of three small children was dead. He was a poor man who had worked hard all his life, had not been able to save anything. And his bereaved family hardly knew where to turn next.

With help from close relatives, they might be able to make it for six months, someone said. After that, no one knew.

The story of their plight was told in newspapers and over the radio as the chase for the killer spread throughout the District of Columbia and adjoining areas. Staccato-voiced announcers spurred that chase in tones charged with emotion as they re-told that simple story of a hard-working man who died in a struggle with a holdup man and left an almost poverty-stricken family. Public sentiment mounted for the family and against the unknown killer.

Then policemen reported an arrest had been made and a full confession obtained.

As details of that confession were unfolded, even the terse police report seemed strangely subdued — considering the angry excitement during the chase.

For it seemed the man who had confessed also was a very poor man, the father of five small children. Apparently, he had no previous police record. He had borrowed about $100 at Christmas time to buy clothes and gifts for the youngsters. He hadn't been able to pay that back yet. Also, he had another sizeable debt of more than $1,000 which he saw no way to pay back.

But mainly, the day of the holdup, he had needed $17 to pay for a ton of coal which was needed to keep the house warm —for three of his children were sick.

So finally that day, he had taken the pistol and gone out to get the money. After a full day of wandering from one likely spot to another—a day of having his courage falter and fail whenever he tried actually to rob someone—he clumsily and amateurishly tried to carry out a holdup.

There was a struggle. The shot was fired. He left without the money he had gone so far to get. He also left his hat. And his aimless drifting through the neighborhood during the day had placed suspicion's finger on his shabby shoulder. So the arrest and confession came soon.

But, suddenly, as the story was told, public sentiment underwent a strange metamorphosis. The family of the victim was at least temporarily forgotten, and sympathy went out to the shocked, unbelieving family of the killer.

Community contributions started pouring in to aid the family whose poverty had brought about a killing. The coal company and the hospital cancelled family bills, and one firm contracted to pay the family rent indefinitely and supply its future coal.

Checks came in from nearby and distant citizens. Neighbors bought groceries, brought cooked meals and sat up with the sick children.

Even the victim's widow was affected, saying she hoped the law would not take the life of her husband's slayer, and even the police who arrested him started a campaign for funds for his family.

Meanwhile, no one had done anything for the bereaved family of the slain victim. Perhaps soon they will, for now it has been called to their attention. But why not before?

Maybe people feel that both families have lost a loved one, but that the killer's family has lost its good name as well, and thus needs sympathy the most. Perhaps, as members of a society in which such a drastic economic crisis could arise, some citizens feel as responsible for the killing as the killer himself. (But still, the victim's family suffered at least as much from that same crisis.)

Or, could it be that, deep within ourselves, we still harbor a hidden high regard for the man who will stop at nothing to protect and provide for those in his personal keeping?

I don't know. I just wonder.

LIFE'S LIKE THAT

Post-War History Seems To Be Repeating.

WASHINGTON — One of the most timely observations in the Lincoln birthday addresses last week was by a younger Republican and a war veteran, Senator Lodge (Mass.) to wit:

"We were not put in office in order to turn the clock back. We were, in my judgment, sent there in order to wind it up, get the crumbs and the rats' nests out of the gears and get it going again.

"In a word they (the people) were voting to make their government once again an effective agency for translating into action the aims and aspirations of the American people."

It was timely because a number of Republicans, including some party leaders, seem to be trying to turn the clock back, and with the connivance of a block of Democrats. It has become so apparent that frequently there comes to one who started newspaper work here soon after World War I, and saw what happened then, the now trite but appropriate expression:

"This is where I came in."

Rejection of the League of Nations . . . the tax and tarrif crews, the "fat boys," coming in to demand that President Warren G. Harding deliver . . . the only question was which should come first. Both got theirs, higher and higher tariffs and lower and lower taxes.

The "red raids" against the "bolsheviki" as we called them then . . . the persecution of innocent people, including union leaders and organizers . . . the Ku Klux Klan and a wave of bigotry . . . fake prosperity for a time that finally crumbled in a ghastly pile of debris . . . depredations by the power trust . . . the shenanigans of high finance.

This time we have our current form of the League of Nations. But many Republicans and some Democrats balk at making it a really functioning organism by striking at the necessary economic and financial bulwarks, including the reciprocal trade program . . . the tax and tariff crews are back again to try to break down the reciprocal trade program, build up tariff walls and to knock off taxes from the well-favored . . . railroads trying to ease out from under the anti-trust laws . . . the power lobby back to stop further development of public power . . . "Communism" used once again to slander and suppress every progressive movement . . . Bilboism in Mississippi and Talmadgeism and the Ku Klux Klan and the Columbians in Georgia.

In this rather gloomy atmosphere a struggle is going on within the Republican party. Since it came to a sort of climax about the time of the birthday of its founder and greatest leader, it properly can be described as a struggle for the soul of the Republican party, for it is fitting to use such a term in connection with Abraham Lincoln. He gave the party a soul in its crisis.

In many ways, this inner struggle is comparable to that out of which the Republican party was born, a conflict between smug and self-satisfied Whiggery and the new political movement represented in Abraham Lincoln, the latter a strange compound of many diverse elements, but all fired by a determination to take a stand on the biggest issue of that day—human slavery.

The basic conflict within the party in these times was aptly defined in the contrasting speeches on Lincoln day by two party leaders.

Harold Stassen of Minnesota warned his party that it must take the outward look toward the rest of the world, specifically in support of the reciprocal trade program, and Senator Taft of Ohio compromised with the past, even as William H. Seward tried to compromise with the issue of that other era.

Senator Taft stands for smugness, Harold Stassen for boldness and progress. There is the irrepressible issue. The party faces issues just as portentous today as those confronted by Abraham Lincoln in his time.

Warning Sounded As Timber Supply Drops.

WASHINGTON—Certain warnings have the sound of an old phonograph record played over and over again. Old stuff, we say, and go on with what happens to preoccupy us at the moment. That is all too true of the oft-told tale of our diminishing natural resources.

But the other day, the chief of the forest service, Lyle F. Watts, put out an annual report that deserved more than the indifference it received. If we had an ounce of old-fashioned common sense, we would stop, look, listen and act.

What Watts was talking about was not a threat to a future generation. It was a threat that is here and now. In timber, the cupboard is almost bare.

Not until there is a drastic change in timbering methods will there be an end to the present shortage of timber products. That means that housing and every other form of construction will continue to lag. The shortage cannot be cured until we begin to grow more trees, and this is a lengthy process.

At the present time, we are cutting nearly twice as much sawtimber as is planted each year. As Watts put it, we are overdrawing our timber bank account each year by 18,600,000,000 board feet. And that at a moment when the last stands of virgin forest are being wastefully cut down!

According to this latest report, 64 per cent of the cutting is at present classified as "poor and destructive," and only 7 per cent as "good." In other words, the old wasteful methods of slash and burn that swept down the vast forest resources of this continent still prevail. They prevail at a moment when, as the chief forester put it:

"We are becoming more and more dependent on the size of our annual timber crop. And our annual timber crop is not big enough to supply the nation's present appetite for timber products. It is far short of what we are likely to need for a strong, expanding economy in the future."

It is still not too late to reverse the present trend. That is to say, it is not too late if we have the courage and the reality to act to save this vanishing resource.

Watts outlines four steps that must be taken. First, as an elementary step, organized fire protection must be brought to the 136,000,000 acres of forest land that do not have it, and the forces fighting forest pests and parasites must be built up to full effectiveness.

Second, the planting program must be increased "so as to bring into productiveness millions of non-productive forest acres now being carried as dead weight."

Third, waste must be reduced through the more complete utilization of the trees now being cut. And lastly, destructive cutting practices must be stopped at the same time that wider adoption of good forest management is encouraged.

As Watts spells it out, "some measure" of public control over forestry practices is absolutely vital if this program is to become a reality.

It cannot be done if free enterprise goes its unrestrained way. For, oddly enough, there are powerful interests that resist any effort to improve methods of cutting meant to conserve the remains of our forests. They apparently would go right on until the last tree was cut down.

Immediately, of course, you can come up against certain scare words — "regimentation," "dictatorship" and "socialization." The powerful interests make use of those scare words to serve their own purpose.

Immediately, too, you come up against a congress talking about economy. Certainly we need economy in spending but even more we need the kind of economy that will save our dwindling resources. It would take money to carry out the program outlined by Chief Forester Watts. The money, spent wisely, could be returned three or four-fold in terms of our forest resources.

GEN. MARSHALL'S wife says he can't eat shrimp without immediately getting weak. She should have kept the secret until after the Moscow conference.

It's going to get monotonous as the courses come out . . . Shrimp cocktail, shrimp soup, shrimp creole and finally shrimp demitasse and shrimp pudding.

We're still trying to find out what some of our earlier missionaries to Moscow ate at the dinner table that left them so weak at the conference table.

After every banquet Stalin added another concession. When the conferences moved to Yalta the shrimp must have been running heavy.

Timely Editorial

Lilienthal's Record.

We don't pretend to know what sinister forces, if any, lie behind the opposition to David E. Lilienthal as chairman of the atomic energy commission.

At first the opposition seemed to stem solely from one vituperative personal enemy, Senator McKellar.

Now it has spread into the ranks of influential Republicans, including Senators Bridges and Wherry. Drew Pearson claims that Senator Taft is behind it, as an anti-administration maneuver. Marquis Childs sees other mysterious influences.

So far, we have not heard of one single shred of evidence that would tend to prove that Lilienthal is unfit for the post. On the other hand, his record as a public servant plus the statements he has made under the most exhaustive and inquisitorial cross-questioning all point to the fact that he is eminently qualified.

The senate should come to its senses, cut out the nonsense and give a resounding vote of approval.—Akron-Beacon Journal.

Venture Club to Be Organized by Soroptimists

The Venture club, a junior organization, sponsored by the Soroptimist club, will be formed Tuesday at a dinner meeting at 7 p. m. at the Southern hotel, according to Mrs. Harold Adams, chairman. Invitations have been issued to prospective members, young women between the ages of 19 and 29.

Guest speaker for this event will be Miss Darwina De' Marcy of Cleveland, national president of the Venture clubs.

Membership is open to young professional and business women, each of whom must be sponsored by a member of a Soroptimist club.

Objectives of the group is "service in any capacity which will better community and county, with special emphasis on assistance to teen age girls; to widen their circle of friendship through local clubs, their region and American council; to guide and inspire youth of today to greater tolerance, higher ideals and fuller knowledge of all peoples in all lands."

Two monthly meetings, one a business session and the other a study program, will be held. Regional council meetings are held at least once a year. These sessions provide opportunities for the exchange of ideas and experiences and also afford inspiration and entertainment.

Griffith-Fry Marriage Rite Solemnized Feb. 16

THE REV. CARVETH P. MITCHELL officiated Sunday at the marriage of Miss Margaret Griffith, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Claude Griffith, 525 Crescent road, to Dwight A. Fry, son of Ray Fry, Bellville. The altar of the First Lutheran church was banked with palms as a background for large baskets of salmon-colored gladioli flanked on either side of seven-branch candelabra.

Mrs. Clayson Bell, organist, played the traditional bridal airs.

The bride was given in marriage by her father and was dressed in a navy blue gabardine suit, blue shoes and white accessories. Her corsage was a white orchid. Her only attendant, Miss Eleanor June, was attired in a light blue suit with navy accessories and a corsage of pink carnations.

Serving Mr. Fry as best man was John Stoner, brother-in-law of the bride, and the ushers were Richard Miles, brother-in-law of the bridegroom, and Richard Stafford of Williamsport.

A reception for one hundred guests was held in the church parlors following the ceremony. Pink snapdragons and white asters decorated the table which was centered with a four-tiered white bride's cake. A miniature bride and groom stood atop the cake. Ice cream and coffee were served.

Following a short wedding trip to Cleveland the bridal couple will reside temporarily with the parents of the bride.

Mrs. Fry is a graduate of Mansfield Senior high school and a member of the U. T. K. club. Mr. Fry attended high school in Bellville. Both are employed by the Tappan Stove company.

The couple was married Saturday morning in St. Patrick's rectory, Galion, at 9:30 with Rev. Father William J. Killoran officiating. Double ring service was used.

The bride wore a white wine gabardine suit with brown accessories. Her corsage was of yellow roses and she carried her mother's blue crystal rosary. Her only attendant was Miss Elizabeth Wharton of Masfield, who wore a gray combination wool and velget dress with black accessories.

Paul L. Kriegel, brother of the bride, was best man.

Following the ceremony a wedding breakfast was served at the home of the bride's parents. This was served by Mrs. Fred Essex of Galion, Mrs. Joseph Pival, jr., and Miss Wharton of Mansfield. A crystal and silver table service was used with white and yellow flowers for the serving table.

For her wedding trip the bride wore her wedding suit with black accessories and a black topper coat. Following a trip through southern Ohio the couple will reside in Springfield.

Mr. Pival was graduated from Mansfield Senior high school and is a veteran of three years service in the army medical department. He is now a student at Wittenberg college, Springfield.

The former Miss Kriegel was graduated from Galion high school. She recently resigned her position as bookkeeper and clerk at the Ohio Fuel Gas company.

U. S. BEGINS MOVE TO GET JAP ISLANDS

Nation Wants Permission of U. N. to Administer, Arm Pacific Possessions.

LAKE SUCCESS, N. Y.—(INS)—The United States took initial action in the United Nations today to acquire the exclusive right to administer and arm the strategic Pacific island possessions once held under mandate by the Japanese.

Tests of trusteeship agreements which would give the United States title to the Caroline, Marshall and Marianas islands were presented for preliminary examination to the 10 other member nations on the U. N. security council.

The security council rather than the trusteeship council is being called upon to create American trusteeship of the island bases since the United States has specified them as "strategic areas" thereby eligible to be militarized.

Objections Expected.

British as well as Russian objection is expected to be encountered as both nations have indicated that until the peace treaty with Japan has been written, no definite disposition of the Japanese ocean empire should be made.

The islands were taken from Germany after the first World war and given to Japan under mandate by the League of Nations. In violation of mandate rules, the Japanese secretly armed the islands and from them mounted their surprise attack on the United States.

Among the island chains, some of the familiar battlegrounds where American forces suffered heavy losses in wresting them from Japan are Kwajalein, Saipan, Pelelieu and Truk.

The American bid for action by the security council came as both Russia and the United States prepared for the decisive showdown debate on a system of atomic control.

Atomic Fight Resumes.

Soviet delegate Andrei Gromyko will present at the council's session tomorrow a detailed list of amendments and modifications to the recommendations of the atomic energy commission. Similar Polish proposals also will be presented.

Gromyko, as he indicated last Friday, will again demand immediate action on an international convention prohibiting production of atomic weapons at once calling for immediate destruction of existing atom bomb stockpiles.

The United States will in opposition support recommendations in the report which are basically those of the Baruch plan. They advise no such treaty until an atomic control agency is empowered and a fully operative security system is functioning.

DISCHARGE PAPERS GIVE WAA PRIORITY

WASHINGTON—(AP)—Veterans after March 1 need only show their discharge papers to purchase surplus goods set aside for them, the War Assets Administration announced.

New lists of "set-aside" goods will be prepared in each region to supplement the national lists which now cover items ranging from typewriters to trucks.

Previously veterans have been required to obtain certificates from WAA field offices, to verify their priority rights and to certify that the goods are for personal use instead of resale.

YOWLER IS DISAPPOINTED

Know or judge not. Then you'll
Make no unfortunate mistake.
—Old Mother Nature.

Yowler the Bobcat watched Prickly Porcupine gnawing at something in the snow. The longer he watched the more curious he became. It always is that way with curiosity. This is why it so often gets people into trouble. It is good to be curious, but not too curious.

"That fellow lives on bark and twigs and leaves. He can't have found any of these down there in the snow. He always has plenty in the trees. All he has to do is to help himself whenever he is hungry. It must be wonderful to know that there is always plenty of food just waiting to be eaten. I would like to know what there can possibly be down there in the snow that is good to eat. I wonder if it is anything I can eat. One never knows what one can eat until one is starving. I'll go down there and find out what he has found," said Yowler to himself.

He backed down the tree from which he had been looking at Prickly Porky gnawing at something he had pulled out of the snow. He stole along one of the Deer paths trodden in the snow until he was near, but not too near, Prickly Porky. He made no sound, and if Prickly Porky knew that he was there he didn't appear to. He crouched over something on which he seemed to be at work with his teeth, but what it was Yowler still couldn't see. Prickly Pork's body was in the way.

"Is it good?" growled Yowler.

Prickly Porky turned his head quickly to see who had spoken. At the same time the thousand little spears, called quills, that had been hidden in the long hair of his coat, seemed to jump out of hiding and stood on end pointing in all directions. Their points were as sharp as needles. They were not at all pleasant to look at.

"What do you want?" whined Prickly Porky.

"Something to eat. What is that you are eating?" growled Yowler. His voice wasn't at all pleasant.

"Nothing that you would like," whined Prickly Porky. He didn't whine because he was afraid but because he had whined so much that it had become a habit with him.

"How do you know I wouldn't? I'm hungry enough to eat anything, even you," growled Yowler.

"Don't try it!" exclaimed Prickly Porky somewhat hastily, and this time he didn't whine. "You'll be sorry if you do. You'll be the sorriest Bobcat ever was," he added.

"You haven't told me what you are eating," Yowler persisted.

"Who says I am eating it? I am just gnawing it. Haven't you ever gnawed a bone? Perhaps it is just to keep my teeth in good condition. Perhaps it is because I like the taste. It is none of your business anyway," retorted Prickly Porky.

"I may make it my business," growled Yowler. It sounded very much like a threat. Yes, sir, that is how it sounded.

Prickly Porky said nothing, not a word. He turned his back to Yowler and then began to move back. At the same time he swung his tail back and forth. It wasn't a pleasant thing to look at, not for Yowler anyway. That tail was covered with quills. They were much shorter than those on Prickly Porky's back, but they were just as sharp. A slap from that tail would—well, Yowler could guess how it would feel, and a guess was all he had any desire for. He backed away. His haste was too great for dignity.

"I didn't say I would do anything to you," he growled.

"You won't. I'm just warning you not to try," replied Prickly Porky, and went back to gnawing what he had found in the snow.

"I hope he won't eat all of it. If he leaves me a bit it will help," thought Yowler as he waited at a short distance.

At last Prickly Porky shuffled over to a tree and began to climb it. Curious and eager, Yowler swiftly approached what Prickly Porky had appeared to be eating. Such a disappointment! It was one of Lightfoot the Deer's cast-off antlers.
